

Roommate Cleaning & Space Agreement

This is not a legally binding document; this is a tool for roommates to recognize and discuss topics related to living together harmoniously. It is important that all roommates agree to discuss these topics honestly and find ways to compromise both now and if any conflicts arise.

Use of and Care for Our Space:

It is important to discuss your daily habits and preferences while in a shared living space. Be honest in the chart below about your daily habits and preferences to ensure all members of the room come to an agreement on how to best behave in your shared space.

Temperature/Thermostat:

The temperature at which the thermostat is kept can make a financial difference. It takes energy to cool down or heat or the apartment. Discuss the temperature range at which everyone is comfortable keeping the apartment:

Sleeping Habits & Preferences

Name	Time I go to bed	Time I wake up	Amount of noise I can sleep with	Temperature I prefer while I am sleeping	Other preferences you should know
			None/Some/Indifferent	Warm/Cold/Indifferent
			None/Some/Indifferent	Warm/Cold/Indifferent
			None/Some/Indifferent	Warm/Cold/Indifferent

We agree to do the following to respect each other's studying habits:

Cleanliness

The following lists common tasks you will need to share. Discuss how these tasks will be shared. How often will these tasks happen? Who will do them? Will the same person do the same task or will you rotate? Who will submit maintenance requests for broken items?

Task	Frequency	Person Responsible
Take trash to dumpster
Take recycling to appropriate bins
Vacuum common spaces
Clean kitchen floor and counters
Clean bathroom surfaces
Buy cleaning or household supplies (Lysol wipes, toilet paper, swifer)
Dishes

Common Spaces: (bathroom, porch, living room, fridge space, cabinet space) are meant to be shared.

Discuss what you are allowed to store in commons spaces (personal belongings, bicycles, trash, recycling).

How will you equitably divide cabinet or fridge space?

We agree to the following for common spaces:
